EXTRACT TWO

Interviewer: Silvia, from Rio de Janeiro, went out with four friends, Karina, Monica, Ana, and Thelma. Silvia, can you tell us about your girls' night out?
Silvia: Sure.
Interviewer: What did you wear?
Silvia: I wore jeans and a jacket – and two friends wore the same!
Interviewer: And what did you do?
Silvia: Well, first we went to a restaurant in Ipanema. It's a place where a lot of famous people go and we saw an actor there, called Fernando Pinto. Karina really likes him – in fact she's crazy about him! Then we went to a beach bar and we had some drinks. And then later we went to a party.
Interviewer: What did you have to eat and drink?
Silvia: At the restaurant we had beer and we had some French fries. And at the beach bar we had beer and coconut water.
Interviewer: What did you talk about?
Silvia: About men, of course! What else?

EXTRACT THREE

Alex: ... but you have to think about escaping sometimes.
Matt: Yes, that's right. I would like to fly around the world and see lots of interesting places.
Dee: You, Matt, but you hate flying. You're not going to get on a long-haul flight!
Matt: I hate flying but I love going to new places. Anyway, don't you ever want to change your life, Dee?
Dee: Me, yes, of course. I'd like to become a politician and change the world.
Jamie: I wouldn't like that. Everyone hates politicians.

EXTRACT FOUR

Let's have a look at the weather map for Europe. Well, starting in the north, the weather isn't very good in Scandinavia – it's snowing in Sweden. It's foggy in the east of the UK, and at the moment it's raining heavily in the north of Germany. It's quite cold today in Poland – it's about five degrees in the east – and it's very cloudy in France. It's cloudy over the whole of France. The weather is looking good in the south of Europe, though. As usual, it's very sunny in the south of Spain ...

LISTENING 3

Interviewer: So, how was it?

Ranjiv: Difficult! Especially at the beginning.

Mandy: Yes, the first few days were strange.

Interviewer: How many hours of TV did you watch before we took your TV set away?

Ranjiv: Erm, ... about five or six hours a day. I suppose, more at the weekend.

Mandy: Especially if the weather was bad.

Interviewer: What programmes did you miss most? Ranjiv?

Ranjiv: What programmes did I miss most? Well, the news, I think ... and the football.

Interviewer: Mandy?

Mandy: Films more than anything else... I mean, we couldn't rent videos and I really missed that. It's great way to relax.

Interviewer: So, what did you do instead?

Ranjiv: Well, we listened to the radio a lot more, especially for the news.

Mandy: Yeah, and I liked that actually. I think the radio news is better than the TV news. There are more interviews.

Ranjiv: And the radio was good for sports too. It was difficult to start with, trying to imagine what the game looked like. It was like when I was a boy. My dad and me listened to loads of football matches together on the radio. I prefer to watch sports on TV though. It's more exciting.

Interviewer: And what about the rest of the time?

Mandy: Well, I phoned my friends a lot more, and wrote letters and e-mails. I felt like I had more time.

Ranjiv: And we read more of course. I read all the paper, completely from the beginning to the end, everyday. Usually I only have time to read one or two of the main stories.

Mandy: Yeah, and we played games, card games, Monopoly, Risk. I even learnt to play chess!

Ranjiv: Yes, she's getting really good at it!

Interviewer: So, what was the most difficult thing?

Mandy: Erm, well, strangely, it was really difficult not watching TVs when we were out. I didn't realise before, but there are TVs everywhere! In pubs, in restaurants, in cafés... And of course, if there was a TV then we couldn't go in – that was one of the rules.

Interviewer: And what was the best thing about the whole experience?

Ranjiv: We were more sociable than usual I think. We went out more. We invited friends round for dinner.

Mandy: Yeah, we did lots of things we didn't have time for before.

Interviewer: So, do you want your TV back?

Both: Yes!

Mandy: Though we probably won't watch it as much as before.
